
100038

C0 A 1673 - 4513 2022 - 02 - 001 - 05

20

20

6000

" "

" "

"

"

" "

" "

" " "

" "

72%

66.3%

12.5%

21.2%

QQ

“ ”

3 . D . 2016 10.

4 . J . 2009 06 55 - 58.

5 James Q. Wilson George L. Kelling. Broken Windows J . The Atlantic Monthly 1982 90.

4 . J . 2021 32 12 238 - 240.

5 . J . 2017 01 95 - 96.

6 . J . 2021 11 131 - 132.

7 . J . 2007 06 17 - 19.

1 . J . 2010 29 12 1525 - 1531.

2 . J . 1995 01 47 - 52.

8 . N . 2013 - 10 - 21 001 .

9 . N . 2015 215 .

A Study on Community Security Governance in Residential Resettlement Areas in the Urban-rural Fringe

——Taking Quantang Community of Changsha City as an Example

TANG Jing

People's Public Security University of China Shaoyang Hunan 422900 China

Abstract In the process of urbanization the issue of public security in residential resettlement areas in the urban-rural fringe has always been the focus and difficulty of community policing. Due to the special geographical location of the urban-rural fringe coupled with the new development environment and complex personnel structure the public security situation and public security management in this area are complicated which has become a weak link in the chain of prevention and control. In view of the problems existing in the floating population such as inaccurate information prominent illegal and criminal problems serious potential safety hazards and so on this paper puts forward that the relevant functional departments should take strengthening management as the general starting point renovate the social security in the residential resettlement area and improve the level of community security governance in the urban-rural fringe through the organic combination of publicity and education mass prevention and mass governance increasing fund investment and improving infrastructure.

Keywords urban-rural fringe residential resettlement area public security management