Abstract With the construction of first-class disciplines and the joining of high-level talents the scientific research level and strength of private colleges and universities have been continuously improved which has laid a good foundation for the work of private college journals to break new ground. The growing team of authors the elaborate construction of special columns and the improvement of editorial quality will be the important prerequisites for running good academic journals in private universities in the future. In the long run to get out of the predicament of running journals private college journals still need the strong support from the construction of first-class disciplines and professionalism and the optimization of faculty structure. At present it is a good way to crack the development problem of private college journals through joint publication.
