Abstract As an important literary trend in the 1980s, root-seeking literature was influenced by the culturally custom novels of Wang Zengqi and others, and also inspired by Latin American literature such as . Root-seeking literature is a rethinking of traditional culture in the new era. As a masterpiece of root-seeking literature, not only affirms traditional Chinese culture, but also interprets it in a modern way simultaneously, so as to adapt the traditional culture to the development of the times. The root-seeking literature represented by Ah Cheng's has made important contributions in inheriting, reflecting and excavating traditional Chinese culture.
